Preventative Pest Control

“an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure!”

Each spring we will treat around the outside of your house with a granule insecticide product. This granule is perfect for all season control of several kinds of pests. It is timed-released granule breaks down over time with the sun and rain, putting a layer of active ingredient around the landscaping around your house. It's great for; ants, fleas, spiders, roaches, and centipedes and millipedes.

Note: You'll want to keep your pets away from the treatment area for at least 24 hours or overnight. The treatment area will be about 6-10 feet from the exterior of your house. So further out in the yard they will away from the granules.

Inspection

“The more you know, the more you'll see.”
-Albert Einstein

Each time we visit your property, we are constantly vigilant of what pests are doing, and why they would even think about coming to your house. We will keep you as informed as you want to, on what pests are actively around your house, and what treatments we recommend and use.

Treatment

It has become highly popular of late to use scare tactics to frighten the general public into believing a particular law will protect them, or a “completely safe” advertised service (an illegal claim, as nothing in life is completely safe!) will solve all their pest problems without any “toxic” pesticides...

Much of our modern society is impacted by chemicals, and safety derives from understanding risks and properly managing exposure. This is why we spend so much time training and mentoring our applicators, and why our targeted pest control services are safer and more eco-friendly than the average do-it-yourselfer. When you receive a pest control service by a licensed professional, we carefully follow state regulations and safety procedures, and apply any products based on the pest pressure, following labeled rates. Whereas often a do-it-yourself homeowner will purchase a can of over-the-counter spray from a home store and proceed to apply the entire can, well over what is indicated on the label.

We consider ourselves protectors of the environment and yourself and property. And with the advances in our industry we will continue to raise the bar on safety and limited exposure to yourself and us.
